| Editor's Note: Gon described his trip as a teenager from "China to the United States" in The Junior Review, 1954: "I went from Canton to Hong Kong on the boat. I stayed at Hong Kong about a month. Hong Kong is a very big city. There are lots of people living here, and also many English people. I had lots of fun. I did not do anything special. I just went to play at a place like a carnival. My brother and I went with some other boys to play volleyball. I saw a trolley car and a big boat the first time in Hong Kong. The trolley took people up a very high mountain to see the outside of the house of some American people and to see the big boat going to America. I had an interesting time in Hong Kong                 "I came from Hong Kong to the United States on an airplane. In the airplane up above the clouds, we could not see anything." |  |   |
